Introducing The EQ

Based in the heart of Westminster, The Evidence Quarter (The EQ) is home to a growing number of evidence-minded organisations, including What Works Centres. Many organisations overlap in their goals of powering evidence based change together for good in public sector areas.

By bringing them together in one geographical space, The EQ encourages cross-pollination and fosters a shared culture of evidence use and collaboration on projects. This increases opportunities to learn and share common problems – from technical evidence issues, to governance and politics, or the effective communication and implementation of evidence.

The EQ has prominence in its proximity to Government, but as a group of independent organisations we want to use our collective power to widen our outreach to the rest of the UK and beyond. Our aim is for The EQ to attract both leading figures in the world of evidence based policy and also incubate new institutions.

The more The EQ organisations can work together and share resources and ideas, the more impact they can have. Our aim is to increase the number of projects delivered in partnership across The EQ, including successful joint funding, and to facilitate the organisations to become greater than the sum of their parts.

Join Us

The EQ is more than just an office. It is also a spiritual home for a wider, like-minded community; encouraging organisations who value evidence to come together and collaborate. We want to expand the network of people that are part of The EQ, particularly drawing in those that are outside of London, in turn expanding the diversity of our community.

We are therefore delighted to introduce The EQ Membership Programme for evidence-minded individuals and organisations who would like to be part of our network. Our three-tiered offering gives you plenty of flexibility; whether you want to join us virtually, if you require flexible working space, or are interested in a permanent home.

All three membership levels give you the opportunity to be part of an exciting growing evidence-focused network. When you become a member of The EQ, you will have the opportunity to access a wealth of experience and practical support to help you develop research, adopt best practice and meet others who can inspire you.

Bronze Membership

Bronze Membership has been designed for organisations and individuals who want to be part of The EQ network, but do not require office space. Our exclusive virtual community is at the core of The EQ, designed for collaboration with like-minded organisations, nurturing the cross-pollination of ideas and reducing duplication. Whether you are based in London or internationally, you will gain access to valuable resources, peer-to-peer discussion and events, and the opportunity to network with leading evidence-minded organisations.

Bronze Membership includes:

- Access to The EQ's members-only website, The Hub, featuring collaborative forums, a library for sharing resources and all recordings from past events. Here you can communicate with other members of The EQ, regardless of your location.
- Invitations to all EQ events, including internal seminars and roundtable discussions, workshops on areas of cross-cutting interest, social networking, plus a host of exciting guest speakers, spanning the best academics, authors, politicians and thought-leaders. We are currently running a virtual series due to COVID-19. These are all recorded and available to replay on The Hub.
- Use of The EQ logo on your website and marketing materials.
